

Assistant/Associate Professor of Clinical Oncology

The medical oncology service at UC Davis consists of 4 faculty, 5 residents and 4-5 full time technicians. The service works closely with the radiation oncology service and has strong clinical and collaborative ties with the diagnostic imaging, dentistry and oral surgery, interventional radiology and soft-tissue/surgical oncology services. The School's oncology group includes clinician scientists, basic science researchers and a cancer pharmacologist allowing for extensive collaborative opportunities in these areas. The UC Davis Center for Companion Animal Health (<https://ccah.vetmed.ucdavis.edu/>) also provides outstanding annual intramural funding opportunities for faculty and resident projects and the oncology service is integrally involved with the UC Davis Veterinary Center for Clinical Trials (<https://clinicaltrials.vetmed.ucdavis.edu/>) that consists of 4 clinical trials coordinators, a clinical trials coordinator supervisor, and an administrative outreach and research specialist. The School of Veterinary Medicine also has strong collaborative research ties to the UC Davis School of Medicine and is integrated within the NCI designated Comprehensive Cancer Center's Comparative Oncology Research Program.
