

Specialty Internship Oncology

FRONTIER Small Animal Specialists is a modern referral and specialty center for dogs and cats, located just east of Munich. In close collaboration with our referring veterinarians, we share the common goal of providing the highest standard of patient care. Our team of internationally recognized specialists covers the fields of Surgery, Neurology, Internal Medicine, Diagnostic Imaging, Anesthesia, Physiotherapy, and Oncology. Equipped with state-of-the-art technology, we ensure we stay at the forefront of veterinary medicine through continuous education and research. Compassion for animals, strong team spirit, mutual respect, and professional development are central to our clinic culture.

Responsibilities

- Supervised patient care in the Oncology and Internal Medicine services (consultations, diagnostics, and treatment)
- Close collaboration with senior clinicians and veterinary nurses
- Medical care of patients within the assigned service
- Participation in a rotating shift schedule

Your Profile

- Degree in Veterinary Medicine
- Valid veterinary license to practice in Germany (Approbation)
- At least one year of clinical experience and/or completion of a rotating internship
- Initial experience in Oncology and Internal Medicine preferred
- Strong willingness to learn and hands-on attitude
- Excellent communication and teamworking skills

What We Offer

We provide a clinical Specialty Internship in Oncology under the supervision of a board-certified ECVIM-CA (Oncology) Diplomate. Our Specialty Interns are assigned to a specific discipline, with this position covering both Oncology and Internal Medicine. In addition to hands-on clinical training, continuous professional development is a key component of our program. This includes regular in-house training sessions, as well as participation in journal and book clubs. All our interns also receive access to the ever-expanding Vet Meet Library with over 200 webinars.

Sounds interesting?

Then we look forward to receiving your application, including your CV, sent to Stephanie Kellner at s.kellner@frontier.vet
