

AUSTRALIA – Mobile Veterinary Specialists (MVS), Small Animal Internal Medicine Specialist, Work where you want.

Design your work around your life, not the other way around.

MVS is a modern alternative to traditional specialist practice. A growing Australia-wide network of mobile veterinary specialists delivering expert care directly inside GP clinics. Built by a team who understands veterinary life from both sides of the referral.

Mobile specialist work is a proven, established way to practice. The difference with MVS is that you get all the clinical upside of mobile specialty work without having to build and run a business. Our systems and operations are built on the model developed by Dr Geoff Nicolson over 8 years as a mobile veterinary cardiologist. You focus purely on the medicine.

Ultimate flexibility, on your terms

You choose where you set up. Dr Geoff Nicolson, our founder, already has an established client base across South East Queensland — but our team is equally set up to help you build a client base anywhere in Australia you'd rather be based.

Flexibility is central to how we operate: flexibility in location, and flexibility in how you structure your schedule.

The Role

You'll travel to partner GP clinics across your chosen region, working alongside their teams to bring specialist-level internal medicine care directly to the patient. Day to day, you'll be:

- Examining, diagnosing, and managing internal medicine cases on-site at partner clinics.
- Client communication is minimal. You'll be working almost exclusively with the referring GP vet, not directly with pet owners.
- Working collaboratively with referring GP vets rather than in isolation.
- Delivering a verbal handover to the GP vet after each visit, with complete case notes and a treatment plan following shortly after.
- Building ongoing relationships with GP clinics and remaining available for follow-up as cases progress.
- Mentoring and upskilling GP colleagues along the way.

Why MVS

- Focus on medicine, we handle the rest — marketing, referral growth, scheduling, and reconciliation are all taken care of, so you never have to think about the business side.
- Work from anywhere — genuine flexibility in the clinics and region you choose to service.
- Low risk – We recognise that it may take some time to build out a full schedule, so we offer a high base salary for the first 3 months before switching to a high commission structure.
- Earn more — a low-overhead structure built around transparent, aligned incentives, so your earning reflects the caseload you build.

- Set your own schedule — no after-hours or on-call expectations, and full autonomy to structure your week sustainably.
- Equipped for excellence — high-quality equipment, integrated booking and case management systems, and ongoing operational support.
- Built on a proven model — our systems are drawn directly from 8 years of real-world mobile specialty practice.

About You

- Registered (or eligible to register) as a veterinarian in Australia.
- Qualified specialist in Internal Medicine — ECVIM-CA or ACVIM Diplomate, ANZCVS Fellow (or board eligible).
- Comfortable working autonomously across multiple clinic environments.
- Genuinely enjoys collaborating with and upskilling GP vets, not just managing referred cases.

If you already know the value of mobile specialty work — or have been considering building it yourself — MVS gives you the same clinical freedom, backed by a proven operating model, without having to build and run the business around it. We'd love to hear from you.
